Horizon Performance LLC partners with clients to help make personnel decisions based on their unique requirements, providing event modules, behavior-tracking programs, survey/peer assessment programs, etc. The company begins by identifying the organizational data necessary – including test scores, online survey material and assessor ratings – then creates useful knowledge out of the resulting information, helping to identify workforce strengths and areas for improvement.

BIRT is used by Horizon Performance in its Student Development System, an application the company developed from scratch to assess the strengths and weaknesses of employment candidates. BIRT reports are custom created based on external clients' needs and display performance data captured in the program, allowing those clients to see it more clearly. Horizon Performance likes BIRT for its ease of use, ability to manipulate data, interactive features and access to multiple datasets.
